Tender Means Only Hope for Landowners

Sole Chance of Relief for Sumas Men Through Petition on Compassionate Ground, Says Premier

Government Not In Any Way Liable

Land Settlement Board Agents of Landowners, Not of Government, Declares Hon. John Oliver

ANY relief that the property-owners in the Sumas dyking district may obtain must come by way of petition, based on compassionate grounds and not as a right, declared Hon. John Oliver when he appeared before the Select Committee on Agriculture yesterday during consideration of the Sumas Dyking Bill.

The Premier made his position clear and is no uncertain terms told the landowners that the Government assumed no responsibility in any way for the costs of the undertaking. He further warned the committee that it had no power to make any recommendations to the Legislature in connection with the placing of any part of the cost of the Sumas project on the Province. The Government did not regard the Land Settlement Board as its agent, but as the agent of the landowners.

After reviewing the initial stages of the proposal to reclaim Sumas lake lands, the Premier said that a meeting of landowners had been held in November, 1919. Having knowledge of dyking matters and the absolute unreliability of engineers' estimates in work of this character and having doubts of the feasibility of the work, and the fear that conditions would arise such as we have today, I went to that meeting, declared the Premier.

At Own Risk, Says Premier
Continuing, he said he told the farmers of the "unreliability of engineers' estimates," and the difficulties that might be expected and in view of the high construction costs that existed at that time he advised the farmers of further work until prices had become stabilized. He told them that if they decided to continue, it was at their own risk. "I told them they would be held responsible for the whole cost to the last dollar of their holdings," said the Premier, adding, "I did that to prevent, if possible, the situation as it exists today."

Stricken Author Holds to Strength

Mr. Kipling Believed in No Great Danger, Although Disease Must Run Its Course

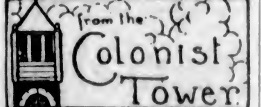

LONDON, Dec. 3.—Rudyard Kipling, who is suffering from double pneumonia at his home at the little Sumas village of Bournemouth, is passing through the regular course of the disease, inquirers near midnight were informed. His strength was being well maintained.

Lord Dawson, the King's physician, and his personal physician, Dr. Currie, spent most of the day at his bedside. Lord Dawson started for London this evening, but was obliged to return to Burwash on account of the fog.

The fact that he left the patient at all is considered indicative of his belief that Kipling is not at the present time in grave danger.

It was deemed advisable today to administer oxygen to the patient, which means that the physicians are affording artificial aid in keeping up the patient's strength, enabling the heart to carry on.

Kipling's daughter, Mrs. Hambridge, and her husband, Captain George Hambridge, arrived here tonight from Belgium. They will proceed to Burwash tomorrow.

TORONTO, Dec. 3.—The Prince of Wales is an extraordinarily good "gentleman rider" despite the number of times his Royal Highness has fallen off his horse, according to Guy Weedick, manager of the Calgary Stampede, and a neighbor rancher of the Prince at High River, Alta., speaking before the Kiwanis Club here.

Relating how he had gone to the E. P. Ranch of the Prince to meet H. H. H. by appointment, Mr. Weedick said that at first the Prince could not be found, but after a long search he was discovered "throwing no mean pitchfork" in the barn.

The best previous price paid for a champion steer was $2.62.

Harbor Gives Up Possible Victim Of Tug Disaster

Decomposed Remains of Man Found in Sea Off Entrance to Sooke Harbor Yesterday Afternoon

May Have Drifted Afar

Provincial police brought to the McCall funeral establishment early last night the badly decomposed body of a man that had been picked up in the sea off the entrance to Sooke Harbor about 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Captain E. Eastman, of the quarantine tender Evelyn. Captain Eastman brought the body to the beach and police officers transferred it later to the McCall premises.

The body had evidently been in the water for seven or eight weeks and there is a possibility that it might be the remains of one of the longshoremen who were drowned in the marine accident at Beedick Island, October 17, when the Victoria tugboat Hope capsized and sank, seven men being lost.

The point where the body was first sighted is about fifteen miles from the island where the disaster took place. It is explained that strong currents which sweep along the coast for the entire distance might easily have carried the body to the harbor entrance.

According to the police report, the dead man was about six feet in height, wearing brown cloth pants, a tattered shirt and soft collar, the former marked with blue and black stripes, and a suit of Watson's Knickerbocker all-wool underwear. On his feet were grey wool socks and brown, plain-toed Blucher ankle boots. The boots were equipped with large metal eyelets and hooks and had been recently half-soled. He was wearing heavy, wide-soled shoes.

Action of the water had made it impossible for identification of the body by its features, but the police are hopeful that the identity may be established by the clothing.

Harvester Company May Buy Pulp Plant

Dicker Reported On for Idle Beaver Cove Mill—Shareholders to Say Soon

VANCOUVER, Dec. 3.—The Evening Sun today said that the International Harvester Company had made an offer to buy sixty per cent of the stock of the Beaver Cove Pulp & Paper Company, whose holdings are located 150 miles north of Vancouver, the bid to come up for acceptance on December 15 by the shareholders.

It is reported that conclusion of the deal will mean paying the claims of all creditors of the latter concern, amounting to about $2,000,000, and the erection of a $12,000,000 paper mill and a $4,000,000 sawmill.

The Beaver Cove Company took over their holdings on Vancouver Island about seventeen years ago, but owing to war troubles and various post-war difficulties the plant produced only about 400 tons of Kraft pulp, then closed, and has remained closed ever since.

German Ministry Resigns Saturday

Dr. Luther Fulfilling Promise to Withdraw After Locarno Pact Signing

BERLIN, Dec. 3.—The German Cabinet will resign on Saturday. This is in keeping with an announcement made by Chancellor Luther on November 29 to the Reichstag that the Government would withdraw from office after the Locarno pact signing ceremony in London, December 1, and that a new Cabinet would be formed in sympathy with the Locarno policies and obligations.

The Berlin papers publish an interview which Dr. Stresemann, the Foreign Minister, gave to a German correspondent in London, in which he expresses the greatest optimism regarding further negotiations over the questions arising out of the Locarno understanding.

A report from Paris that Dr. Stresemann will soon proceed there is hailed with satisfaction by the Liberal Socialist press, which points out that this would be the first time in fifty-five years that a German Foreign Minister visited the French capital officially.

Forwarder observes that "Stresemann's visit would more visibly than judicial pacts demonstrate to the world the beginning of Franco-German co-operation."

Border Feud In Ireland Comes to End

Agreement Reached by Free State, Ulster and Britain—Old Boundary Line to Remain

Commission's Work Set Aside, Ignored

Dublin Freed of British War Debt, But Will Pay for All Property Damage Since 1909

LONDON, Dec. 3.—The negotiations at London for settling the difficultly caused by the refusal of Prof. Eoin MacNeill, the Free State representative, to recognize the award of his colleagues on the Irish Boundary Commission, has been concluded. The terms of the new agreement were issued tonight and Premier Baldwin was able to read them to the Commons before the House rose.

The new agreement embodies settlement of the boundary question with the full assent of all parties concerned. Final formalities were arranged with top speed in order to allow Premier Cosgrave of the Free State and his colleagues to catch the night boat for Dublin.

Old Boundary Remains

The new agreement revokes Article 13 of the Anglo-Irish treaty, which provided for the boundary commission, and releases the Free State from obligation under Article 5 to pay a portion of the British war debts, while the Free State undertakes to shoulder the whole costs of compensation for damage to property in Ireland.

A slight concession also is made to the Northern Government in transfer to the Ulster Parliament of powers heretofore invested in the council of Ireland. Ulster had the advantage, too, of retaining the existing boundary.

In his statement to the Commons, Premier Baldwin expressed the hope that the necessary legislation authorizing the new agreement would be passed before the House rises for the Christmas recess.

Text of Agreement

The text of the new agreement amending and supplementing the articles of the treaty was issued tonight. The preamble says: "Whereas the progress of events and the improved relations now existing between the British, Saorstat and Northern Ireland Governments and their respective peoples make it desirable to amend and supplement the said articles so as to avoid any cause of friction which might mar or retard the further growth of the friendly relations between said Governments, and peoples; and

Whereas the British Government and the Saorstat Government being

Court Advises Against Rum

Harry Atkins Acquits Himself of Charge of Dangerous Driving on City Streets

Harry Atkins, charged with driving to the common danger, was acquitted of the offence by the police magistrate yesterday morning. The court in doing so, however, added, "but be careful of the hot rum." The reference to the well-known army ration, and that accused served in the war, was introduced in consequence of the suggestion being made that accused had been drinking and that the display of inability to drive his car arose from that cause.

Accused had had C. Kinman, of the Mubash, as a witness at his place last Friday night. There had been a few drinks of hot rum partaken of before they went to bed. Next morning they drove into the city and when near the city hall Atkins suddenly shouted, threw up his hands and collapsed. His companion steered the car to the curb and accused got out. Mr. J. M. Fowler was called and in his testimony yesterday said he was of opinion accused was intoxicated. He seemed to be uneasy, he refused to let the doctor do anything for him, and he left him.

Sergeant Boulton, of the city force, accused was staggering and smelled of liquor. Frank Stewart, of the fire department, had heard the man shriek and saw him collapse, and had run towards him. Accused denied he had had a drink that morning. Six years ago he had a somewhat similar "fit." He remembered nothing of what happened after he collapsed. The magistrate accused said he could not remember whether he had had rum at the time of the fit six years before. His companion said he did not have liquor in the morning and was of the opinion accused had had some kind of a fit.

The magistrate considered there was some doubt as to whether accused had been intoxicated and gave him the benefit of the doubt, but at the same time warned him against hot rum.

Tender Means Only Hope for Sumas Men

Hon. Mr. Oliver explained the position of the Crown lands. At the time that the work started the cost of the project could only be assessed against the private lands, but the Legislature passed an Act permitting assessment against Crown lands in the area. In anticipation of securing them from the Dominion. It was expected that the Dominion would convey the lands direct to the Dyking Commission, but this had not been done. The lands were conveyed direct to the Province on the understanding that they would be reconveyed to the commissioners. The Legislature, in setting up the machinery for bringing the lands within control of the Dyking Commission, was that they would be reconveyed to the province, and the values would go towards the cost of the undertaking. He had been informed, said the Premier, that the whole of the lands, including former Crown lands, had been assessed.

Actions to Be Validated
Mr. J. W. Jones—You say the engineer has assessed the lake lands as well as private lands?
Hon. Mr. Oliver—The lake lands have not yet been put under the commission, but this is being done. One of the things that this bill provides is for the validating of the assessment.

The Premier explained that some years ago another bill had been passed in respect to a dyking area confirming the assessment.
"I understand that the property-owners take exception to the assessment, went on the Premier, "and some have appealed. Provisions are made in the bill for those appeals to go on."
Hon. J. R. Grant—The bill provides for the validation of the assessment. The Premier explained that some years ago another bill had been passed in respect to a dyking area confirming the assessment.

$800,000 Was Figure
The Minister of Agriculture, Hon. E. D. Barrow, gave evidence of the nature of the scheme and the work carried out. It was found, he said, that the original estimates were not sufficient as to quantities to give stability to the work. The property-owners, as well as the Dyking Commissioners, realized that at the time that the area should be within the jurisdiction of the Dyking Commission, but sold for the benefit of the whole area.

Former Enemies to Be Admitted

Mr. Premier, then all that you really want is to have a chairman and a stenographer. The usual thing is for a select committee to hear evidence and report on it to the House.
Premier Oliver—Where is your authority?
Mr. Jones—That has always been the custom.
Premier Oliver—Well, if the committee goes on and acts without precedent then those sections of the committee report which are not supported by precedent can be ruled out of order and I want to avoid that.

Premier Is Sorry
The Premier, answering a number of questions as to the exact responsibility the Government assumed at the original meeting of landowners in November, 1919, said that he did not consider how anything very significant could have happened, in a meeting at which there was barely standing space in a very small room. "I can only tell you what the purpose of my visit there was," he added.

Mr. Grant—But, in January, 1917, before the petition of the owners, it was stated that the cost of the work would not be more than $1,200,000, having been reduced from the $1,500,000 figure later adopted by the elimination of an amount of $300,000, previously estimated. It was a long time before their appointment. There were many schemes and they went as far back as 1892, to my knowledge.

Mr. Grant—You had nothing to do with the details of the scheme?
Hon. Mr. Oliver—No, and I am sorry I had anything to do with the principle of the scheme, either.
(Laughter.)

Landowners Can Appeal
The Premier urged the committee and all concerned to recognize the fact that there was a distinct line of cleavage between the Land Settlement Board as a Government department and the board, acting as Dyking Commissioners and as such, agents for the owners. "It is no function of the Government to supervise the work of the Dyking Commission," he said.

The Premier would not agree to a proposal that another committee be appointed to deal with the matter. He reiterated his previous statement that the landowners, if they were aggrieved, could appeal and have the matter dealt with by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council. "Until the evidence has been heard before this committee, I am not going," he said, "to take up any position, beyond stating emphatically that my own personal opinion is that there is no justification for putting any part of this burden on the Province."

After being on the witness stand for an hour and a half the Premier stood down, while the Minister of Agriculture gave evidence. Mr. Oliver returned, however, when Mr. Grant was stating the case for the owners, and intervened to say that the members of the opposition had been misleading the people, with campaign in the newspapers against the Government, which alleged that Sumas was a Government work. They never mentioned the Dyking Commissioners, which was the appropriate term to use, he complained.

Council Disagrees
Mr. Grant—I don't agree with you, because they are a Government body.
Hon. Mr. Oliver—The Government was never represented at these meetings and the Government has never had any connection, as a Government, with the undertaking.
Mr. Grant—But you and the Minister of Agriculture were present and addressed the landowners.
Hon. Mr. Oliver—Mr. Barrow was member for the district.
Mr. R. W. Bruhn, Salmon Arm—But was not Government money made available to the Dyking Commissioners for the work?
Hon. Mr. Oliver—Yes.

Sumas Project Is Defended by Delta Member

Mr. A. M. Paterson Expects District to Become Most Productive Farming Area in Canada

Denies Seepage Exists

The Oliver Government's reclamation project at Sumas found a vigorous defender in Mr. A. M. Paterson, Liberal member for Delta and chief Government Whip, when he contributed a brief speech to the debate on the Budget in the Legislature yesterday. He declared that when the Sumas district was brought fully under cultivation it would be the most productive farming area in Canada.

"I understand we had a gang of experts from the Legislature pay a visit to the Sumas region last week," added Mr. Paterson. "The same back with the report that the land was covered with water."

Colonel F. Lister (Creston), denied the allegation. They had reported that some of the land was covered with water and that there was dangerous seepage through the dykes. "The member for Creston said that he would not accept 500 acres of Sumas land as a gift," Mr. Paterson recalled. "I want to say that I would not trade 500 acres of Sumas land for the honorable member's whole constituency."

Seepage Denied
He declared that, as a layman, he had protested to the engineers who had formed the original estimates for the reclamation scheme, on the ground that their estimate was too small, and he had been told that the matter was none of his business. Mr. Paterson denied that there was any seepage through the dykes.

"There is seepage; considerable seepage," Colonel Lister interjected. "Anybody with eyes can see where the water is seeping through the dykes and where the action of water has washed away part of the structure. Large sections of land are covered with water."

The speaker declared that the reason why the dykes looked as though they had been under the action of water lay in the fact that when they were built, the earth used was saturated with water and this water had afterwards soaked out, carrying some sand with it.

Colonel Lister: What is the object, then, of the second dyke paralleling the original one?

"Merely as a precautionary measure," Mr. Paterson answered. "It was constructed in order to take care of any emergency. I want to assure the members of the House that the Sumas dykes will not be washed out during their lifetime, at least."

Best Land in Canada
Relative to the value of the Sumas land, the member for Delta said that last year he had seen the finest clover crop he had ever seen in any part of Canada. It was even better than anything that could be grown in the Delta district.

That some of the low-lying lake bottom land might have to be under-drained, but, altogether, there was a block of 30,000 acres of land, the best land in Canada, he said. The land had been occupied by settlers for 11 years originally, and had been assessed and taxed and the best of it had been sold. He asked if the members did not think it better a man should pay $150 per acre for land that was ready to receive the plow, than $150 an acre for land that would cost $500 in addition to get the stumps out. He could not see why other people of British Columbia should be saddled with any portion of the Sumas reclamation cost.

He deplored what he termed the pessimism broadcasted over the country by Mr. Hon. Mr. McElroy, Conservative Minister of Agriculture, and claimed that similar outbursts of criticism directed by the Opposition against the Sumas scheme, had done much to give the area a poor reputation in some quarters. They ran the land down and then tried to sell it.

Help Asked in Solution

"Last Summer I made a trip through the States of Washington and Oregon, and I want to say that the farmers of British Columbia don't know what it means to pay taxes. At the same time prices received by British Columbia farmers for their produce were equal to those obtained by farmers across the line. Much of the reason why there was prosperity in the United States lay in the fact, he said, that residents of that country, without exception, were boosters for their land and their communities. In British Columbia, to a great extent, the reverse was the case.

Referring to the P.E.G.E. Mr. Paterson urged the Opposition to meet the members of the Government around a table and help in the search for a solution of the problem presented by the suggestion to the Minister of Railways that more settlers and a corresponding increase in traffic might be secured for the road if freight rates were lowered.

Land Grants Advocated

He was not in favor of the suggestion made by Mr. R. Hayward, senior member for Victoria City, that the railroad should be scrapped and its right-of-way made into a motor road. He also condemned the suggestion advanced by Mr. G. A. Walker (Richmond-Point Grey) that the road be abandoned by the Government. He had enough faith in the future greatness of the north country of the Province to believe that some day enough traffic would be provided to make the railroad pay. He had one suggestion of his own to offer, that the policy of land grants to the road for colonization purposes be carefully considered by the Legislature.

Mr. Paterson made brief reference to the condition of roads in various districts, mentioning in particular the district of Similkameen, represented by Mr. W. A. McKenzie. He mildly criticized the Minister of Public Works for not granting Similkameen greater assistance and, "as one Whip to another," Mr. McKenzie being chief Whip of the Conservative Opposition, said that he would support him in a plea for a greater road appropriation.

Assistance to Returned Men Urged

He also suggested that assistance be given the returned soldiers who were farming land at Camp Lister in the riding represented by Col. Lister. He believed that the Government should give returned men who had been placed on the land all possible

To facilitate David Spencer Limited's, Santa Claus ceremonies tomorrow morning, View Street, between Broad and Douglas Streets, will be closed to traffic between the hours of 9:30 and 11:30 o'clock, according to an order announced by Chief of Police John Fry last night. Parking of automobiles will not be allowed.

assistance. He had returned soldier farmers in his own district, settled on Dominion lands, he said, and he considered that it would have been fairer for the Government to have returned them to the trenches in France than to put them on such lands.

Relative to the district of South Okanagan, the riding of Mr. J. W. Jones, Mr. Paterson considered that the appeal for further Government assistance for fruit-growers there in the way of irrigation projects was a political one. He did not think it fair that people of other parts of the Province should be forced to carry the burden of costs applied there. He declared that Mr. Jones was himself one of the first principals in early irrigation projects and he believed that it was "up to him" to persuade the people to get down to hard work. If they did that, he was sure that a good living could be obtained off the land.

The speaker supported a suggestion advanced recently by Hon. Dr. Ruth-erford, that a toll should be charged on the transprovincial highway, now under construction.

Clipping Stops Comment

In conclusion, Mr. Paterson said that he had intended saying something respecting the University of British Columbia and the over-commitments connected with the construction thereof, but after reading a small advertisement that had been presented to him and which evidently had been clipped from a newspaper, he had decided to refrain from any comment. The advertisement ran as follows:

"WANTED—Reliable, honest, sincere, Christian young man, who is a graduate of university. Must give ten written references from property owners and must post cash bond of $5,000. Excellent chance for right young man to get along. Will start at $15 per week."

He was not opposed to education, he explained, although he protested its high cost, but, judging from the advertisement, it did not mean much.

Mr. Cumso—"I wouldn't criticize the singer so severely if I were you. He is doing his best."

Mr. Cumso—"Oh, in that case, it's all right. I was afraid he was doing his worst."

Expert Explains Bureau's Action

All Transcontinental Railways Acted in Common to Revise Lumber Arbitrary Rate

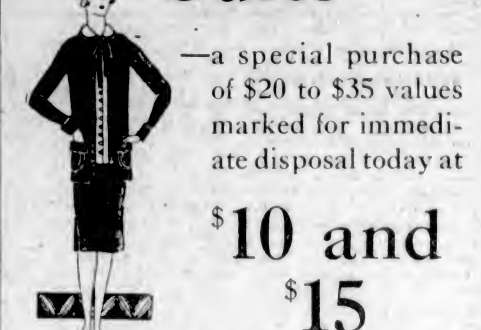

The removal of the lumber arbitrary rate in relation to lumber originating for United States points on Vancouver Island, and the reduction in rates for other commodities, where they are not otherwise cancelled, is not restricted to any particular railway company. This information has been obtained by The Colonist in view of the statements made here recently that decision of one company inspired others to reciprocal action.

It appears from an expert opinion that the whole subject was referred several months ago to the Transcontinental Freight Bureau in Chicago, and the revised rate will be simultaneously effective on all railways having terminals on the Pacific Northwest coast, subject of course to the railways having facilities to remove carload shipments from the island to Mainland terminal points.

This modification, as far as authorized, is entirely limited to destinations in the United States, Duluth, St. Paul, and east of these points. One lumberman has set the value of the concession an equivalent to $12.50 per carload, and an enabling island lumbermen to secure business which would not be otherwise available.

About two years ago an appeal was taken by Island lumbermen to the Article 5 does away with the Council of Ireland—in which the British Government, participation and provides for Ulster and the Free State meeting together whenever necessary for consideration of matters of common interest.

The agreement is subject to confirmation by the British Parliament and the Free State and the act of the British Parliament confirming the agreement will fix the date on which the agreement shall become effective.

The Irish boundary question has been the outstanding point of contention in the application of the Anglo-Irish treaty negotiated in 1921 by the Irish leaders, Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins, with the British Government.

Commissioner's Work
In this agreement six counties of Northern Ireland, or Ulster, were not represented, and the treaty gave the northern counties the option of entering the Free State or remaining separated. Article 12 of the treaty provided that if they did not enter the Free State, their future was to be determined by a commission of three persons, one to represent the Free State, one the Northern counties, and one, the chairman, to be appointed by the British Government.

This commission was made up of Justice Feilham, of South Africa, appointed by the British Government as chairman; Dr. MacNeill, for the Free State, and Joseph Fisher, appointed by the British Government after the Ulster counties had refused to participate in the commission.

The commission is understood to have reached its decision a few weeks ago and the publication of its findings was imminent when Mr. MacNeill suddenly resigned. The commission's decision as published in the press was considered unfavorable to the Free State.

Ulster Premier Satisfied
Belfast, Dec. 3.—Sir James Craig, the Ulster Premier, tonight, "hanking them for their restraint and patience during a prolonged period of anxiety and suspense."

He is fully satisfied with the outcome of the negotiations, the Premier said in his message. "The signatories separated with cordiality which, I trust, may result in more friendly relations being permanently maintained among all parties and cliques throughout Ireland."

Free State Content
LONDON, Dec. 3.—President Cosgrave, of the Free State Cabinet, is quoted by The Daily Express as having made the following declaration, "as he boarded the train for home tonight."

"I firmly believe we have found the only solution in a very difficult situation to which all the governments concerned have subscribed. It will tend more surely and more speedily toward ultimate political unity between the two sections of Ireland than any other course which might have been adopted under the circumstances. I believe the result is a sane, constructive one."

New Agreement Pleases
LONDON, Dec. 3.—Lieutenant-Colonel L. C. C. Amery, Secretary for the Colonies, in a speech here tonight alluded to the new Anglo-Irish agreement. He said that Northern Ireland had agreed to put aside any boundary settlement which would disturb the existing boundary and to accept the existing boundary, so that no man could be shifted from one government to another, but that on each side they should continue to live at peace for all time.

"To make that agreement possible," he went on, "we have freely and generously withdrawn our claim to the Irish Free State proportion of the debt. On the other hand, the Free State has taken upon their shoulders to repay the British Government the cash of the compensation to those who suffered in the recent disturbances in Ireland."

Colonel Amery concluded by expressing the belief that this week is a historical event little less important in its bearing upon future peace of the English-speaking nations, not only in these islands, but throughout the British Empire, and even in the Locran pact signed two days ago.

Mineral Tax Paid in B.C.
Amounts to $298,729

During the year 1923, two per cent mineral tax paid in British Columbia amounted to $298,729.54, according to a return made in the Legislature yesterday by the Minister of Finance to questions filed by Mr. Wallinger, member for Cranbrook. Coal royalties paid during 1923 amounted to $153,823.46, and income tax, in addition to the mineral tax and royalties, payable in 1925 on 1924 profits, amounted to $298,617.39.

Needy Secure Necessities

Generous Public Provides Mr. and Mrs. Young With New House and Furniture

The house supplied Mr. and Mrs. James Young, impoverished by the fire which destroyed their Montreal Street home on Saturday afternoon, has been completely furnished with every requirement through the generosity of the public, according to an announcement of Messrs. Fred Landsberg and J. H. Beatty last night.

The subscription lists at the offices of the two daily newspapers and at the E. A. Morris store will both be closed this morning, sufficient funds having been raised.

"Several friends have volunteered to give me a stove for the Young family," Mr. Landsberg said last night. "My answer was that we had one. Since then my attention has been called to a family in straitened circumstances who are very badly in need of a cooking stove. Anyone willing to donate a stove would please me greatly by phoning me at 2251."

Society and Women's Affairs

Bazaar Held

A most successful social was held at the James Bay United Church on Wednesday afternoon and evening. It was opened at 3 p.m. by Mr. John Kyle, who gave a pleasing address, and was presented with a bouquet of flowers by two little girls, Misses Dorothy Foster and Iris Heat. The well-filled and tastefully laid out stalls were presided over as follows: Useful and fancy articles, Mrs. P. McEwen; Mrs. Foster and Mrs. E. L. Heat; handkerchiefs and toys, Mrs. Milligan; Mrs. Wilkinson; pound table, books and plants, Mrs. Barnes; home-cooking and candy, Mrs. Andrews and Mrs. McCulloch; golden keys stall, Miss J. McDonald and Miss J. MacEwen; afternoon tea, Mrs. MacKay and Mrs. Preston. The president, Mrs. Capt. Kirkendale, presided over the arrangements. The mystery room from India was presided over by Mrs. Reginald Chave and Mrs. H. S. Bentham, tastefully dressed in Indian costumes, brought home by Mrs. Chave from her recent trip to that land. At 6:20 p.m., Mr. Farmer gave his inimitable punch and Judy show, which was thoroughly enjoyed by nearly 200 children and adults. An exceedingly interesting lecture, illustrated with lantern slides, on "Gems of Art," by Mr. John Kyle, at which Mr. J. W. Buckler rendered two fine solos, brought a strenuous, enjoyable and remunerative day to a close. The thanks of the ladies' Aid of the church, under whose auspices the event was held, is warmly extended to all the helpers named above, the donors of the gifts, the unmentioned toilers behind the scenes, and the public who helped to make it a success by their patronage.

Social Evening

Miss Edith Irwin, Young Street, entertained a jolly party at her home Wednesday evening, when an enjoyable time was spent in dancing, songs and recitations. Amongst those present were Mrs. R. J. Roberts, Mrs. Basil Combe, Mrs. Arthur Nixon, the Misses Marjorie and E. Pottinger, Ethel Hale, Nora Tolson, Evelyn Pittman, Mrs. Whittier, Mrs. Griffiths, P. C. Campbell, H. The money belongs to His Majesty the King, but the writ remits the proceeds "when collected."

Home-made, but Ends Coughs in a Hurry

A family supply of dependable cough remedy

If you have a severe cough of chest cold accompanied with soreness, throat tickle, hoarseness, or difficult breathing, or if your child wakes up during the night with croup and you want quick help, try this reliable old home-made cough remedy. Any druggist can supply you with 25 ounces of Pinex. Four this into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. This recipe makes 16 ounces of really remarkable cough remedy. It tastes good, and in spite of its low cost, it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief. You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens and raises the phlegm, stops throat tickle and soothes and heals the irritated membranes that line the throat and bronchial tubes with such promptness, ease and certainty that it is really astonishing.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is probably the best known means of overcoming severe coughs, throat and chest colds. There are many worthless imitations of this mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask for "25 ounces of Pinex," with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Head, Mrs. M. P. Pearce, Mrs. Cudlip, Mrs. W. H. McInnes, Mrs. Roundling, Mrs. Burdick; director of orchestra, Mr. Jesse Longfield.

Wife: "Oh dear! The cook says she is going to leave, and she has been here only two days." Husband: "It's all your own fault, Maria. You never will learn how to manage servants. Why, my mother once kept a cook nearly a month."

Christian General Calls China Parley

Feng, Now Master of Peking, to Form Coalition Cabinet With Military Leaders

PEKING, Dec. 3.—Feng Yu Hsiang, who controls the situation in Peking, intends to summon a conference of the Chinese military leaders to meet at Peking to discuss military affairs and the apportionment of territory among the various commanders. The "Christian General" made this known in an interview published here today.

For the present Gen. Feng desires to retain Marshal Tuan Chi Jui in office as chief executive, but in the military conference, which is expected to last a month or more, the question of the chief executive's position will be taken up. The "Christian General" said he also intends to form a coalition cabinet representing all the various leaders.

Fear of Gold Stampede Starts Fatal Quarrel

WILLIAMS LAKE, Dec. 3.—It was because Alex. Ducharme, for ten years a trapper in the lonely Chilco Lake district, feared a gold rush would drive him from the wild little kingdom which he had come to regard as his own, that he started a quarrel which resulted in his own death on November 3. This, at least, is the story which Fred Cyr, charged with the murder of the old hunter, told friends here before he left on Tuesday to guide a coroner's jury to the grave of the man he admitted shooting.

British Duties Adopted

City's Mayor Returned by Acclamation

Mayor J. Carl Pendray Will Be Chief Executive of City for Another Year—Nine Aldermanic Candidates

Contest for Police Board

Mayor J. Carl Pendray will serve a second term as chief executive of the city, having been declared elected by acclamation. Returning Officer William Sowerby yesterday afternoon when the period for nominations closed with no rival candidate having been named.

Nine candidates for the five vacant Council seats, seven candidates for the four seats on the School Board, and two for the single vacant seat on the Board of Police Commissioners, were nominated yesterday.

Mayor Pleaded

"I am naturally delighted that the citizens of Victoria have shown so much confidence in my administration of civic affairs that they have elected me by acclamation for another term of office," the Mayor declared last night. "I greatly appreciate this honor, more particularly in view of the recent opposition to my part in connection with the expropriation of the Esquimalt waterworks. It is evident that the great majority of the taxpayers strongly support the action of myself and colleagues in taking over the Goldstream system and I am firmly of the opinion that, in the years to come, this waterworks system will prove one of the city's most valuable assets."

"My association with all members of the City Council has been most harmonious and friendly, and while there has naturally been difference of opinion on various subjects the Council as a whole has given me most generous support."

Retiring Resigned

"I regret that, for business reasons, Alderman Blair finds he is unable to offer himself for re-election. Alderman Blair proved a most valuable alderman and his knowledge of municipal affairs and sound advice will be greatly missed. I am pleased, however, to know that the other retiring members of the present Council are again in the field and hope they will all be returned to office."

"I feel that the experience I have gained during the past twelve months will be of great assistance to me in the coming year and I can assure the citizens of Victoria that in the future, as in the past, I will do my utmost to promote the interests of my native city."

Interest in Municipal Elections

Interest in the municipal elections has quickened gradually with the approach of nomination day and the last-minute rush of candidates.

For Alderman

Retiring Ald. Dewar has been on the Council for several years. Under his direction as chairman, the lands committee this year has accomplished a great deal of useful work, more of the city's reverted lands having been sold than ever before. He is also a member of the legislative and health and morals committees, and a representative of the city on the board of directors of the Publicity Bureau.

Mr. William Fullerton is no stranger to municipal politics, having served in the capacity of alderman for many years. He is one of the city's well-known old-timers.

Mr. John Harvey is an ex-alderman of experience, and has a reputation for careful administration. He is a member of several public bodies.

Premier Briand Sways Chamber With Eloquence

Impassioned Plea for Support Lines Up Majority for Financial Proposals—Secures Vote of Confidence

PARIS, Dec. 3.—Premier Briand's appeal to the patriotism of all parties to unite to save France today brought about the adoption by the Chamber of Deputies of the Government's bill providing for the inflation of currency to the amount of 7,500,000,000 francs and additional taxation ranging from 200 to 100 per cent. This evening the finance committee of the Senate accepted the text of the final bill. It is virtually certain that the Senate will adopt the bill tomorrow.

In the Chamber, the final vote on the bill as a whole was 257 to 239. It constituted the fifth vote of confidence in the Government during the lengthy session. The smallest majority in the voting which the Government received was seven, a vote of 246 to 239 on the inflation action of the bill.

Eloquence Silences Critics

Premier Briand appeared before the House, having passed a sleepless night, tired and harassed, but he rose to heights of eloquence never surpassed in the history of French politics. Veteran parliamentarians agree that M. Briand is the only man in France who could have jammed through a measure of this sort against the temper of the House in the early hours of the morning.

After M. Loucheur, the Finance Minister, had failed to impress the assembly with technical explanations, Briand mounted the rostrum and made his appeal.

Critic Also Cheers
A voice in the right centre was heard to remark sarcastically: "There goes the 'cello-soliste'." But the interrupted speaker, too, was cheering before the Premier concluded.

The Chamber adjourned at 12:15 p.m., and M. Briand had been without sleep since 6 o'clock yesterday morning when he left London. But he was on hand when the Senate convened shortly before 3 o'clock.

Debate Favors Naval Defence

Messrs. Hunt and Hebdon Given Decision at Sons of Canada Discussion

The debate held last night in the Native Sons of Canada Hall on the subject, "Should Canada Have Her Own Navy?" was won by Messrs. A. Hunt and G. A. Hebdon, the team upholding the affirmative view, over Messrs. P. C. Abell and J. M. Campbell for the negative. The judges, Messrs. B. C. Nicholas and H. A. Beckwith, announced their decision in favor of the affirmative after a few minutes' deliberation. The debate attracted a large attendance.

Mr. Hebdon, for the affirmative, argued that Canada should maintain protection of her channels of commerce. He said Canada should have her own navy and not be forced to rely on the support of the Mother Country during a crisis. He urged building of a fleet for Canada, in Canada, by Canadians and manned by Canadians, under Canadian officers.

Mr. J. M. Campbell, for the negative, thought that the formation of the League of Nations and the signing of the Locarno Treaty was a great step for the prevention of war. He believed that the leading nations of the world were fighting their hardest to prevent any further war and remarked that another such war as the Great War would wipe humanity off the face of the earth. He favored a fleet for fishery protection purposes.

Following the debate Mrs. Watt and Mr. George Green entertained with a musical programme. Community singing, led by Mr. Orval Peterson, found favor.

Summerless Year Forecast By Sun Spots, Says Science

Day of 1816 in New England Recalled When Snow Fell July 4—Frost Experienced Monthly in "Eighteen-Hundred-and-Froze-to-Death"

Will 1926 be a "year without a summer?" This question is causing no little discussion among those erudite observers whose business it is to deal out twice daily to the waiting public such prophecies as "fair and warmer," "cloudy, with probable showers," or "heavy snows and falling temperature." Some, especially an astronomer of Paris, predict that the climatic disaster that was visited upon the world in the year 1816 is to be repeated in 1926, says The New York Times.

"The year without a summer," "poverty year," or "eighteen-hundred-and-froze-to-death," it was variously called. There were snow and frost every month of the summer, the month of July was celebrated in greatcoats, mittens, the crops were ruined, and men and beasts suffered. If history is going to repeat itself, a look backward should show what is to be expected of next June, July and August.

In 1816 there were no official weather reports in the United States—or at least none that prevailed in the sense that they bore the stamp of the United States Meteorological Bureau. But they were fairly accurate, what there were of them, and the story they reveal, along with contemporary newspaper accounts, is one which, as far as records extend, has never been paralleled.

When Crops Failed

The Western part of the country was settled only by Indians, so that we have no way of knowing whether the unusual weather that prevailed in New York and the New England extended to the Mississippi and beyond. But present-day scientists are convinced that the cold summer of 1816 was no mere local manifestation, and one of them finds indication that "there were no crops raised north of the Ohio and Potomac and but scanty returns much further south." That famous summer was almost as rigorous in England as in the United States.

It was not until April of that year that the people of New York and New England began to notice anything wrong with the climate. The spring was backward, but there had been backward springs before. A resident of Hopkinton, N.Y., William Hildom, whose diary covers a brief period particularly with the weather, reports under date of April 12, as follows: "Full four inches of snow has fallen. We feel the distress due to frost and cold and there is the greatest anxiety ever known in this country."

Unanticipated Snowstorms

But despite the bleakness of April, with its proverbial showers supplant-the diarist had so far abandoned hope that a bare statement of fact is all that we find in his small book. "It froze so hard last night that the mud, three inches deep, will bear a man."

June ushered in a series of hot days and cold nights. In some parts of the country there was frost every night from June 1 to 17. The fifth was very hot. Salem, Mass., felt a temperature of ninety-two degrees, and there were reports of extreme heat in New England and New York.

Snowfall in June

But by sunset of the next day the temperature had fallen to forty-three. The morning of the seventh was gloomy and forboding, with a stiff northwest wind blowing. Snow began to fall in heavy flakes until it was four to twelve inches deep.

From the northern border of Massachusetts came tales of icicles pendant from blighted foliage. At Peacham, Vt., Joseph Walker, aged eighty-eight, lost himself in the snowstorm on the night of June 7 and his feet became so severely frostbitten that it was necessary to amputate his great toes. Flocks of birds huddled on the ground, so numb and dazed with cold that they allowed people to approach them and take them in hand. Sparrows, martens, hummingbirds and yellow birds perished by hundreds.

Chauncey Jerome, in his "History of the American Clock Business," gives the following picture of the situation at Plymouth, Mass.: "The next summer was the cold one of 1816, which none of the old people will ever forget and which many of the young have heard a great deal about. There was ice and snow in every month of the year. I well remember June 7. While on my way to work about a mile from home, dressed in thick woolen clothes and an overcoat, my hands got so cold that I was obliged to lay down my tools and put on a pair of mittens which I had in my pocket.

Clothes Frozen Stiff
"It snowed about an hour that day. On June 19 my wife brought in some clothes that had been spread on the ground the night before, which were frozen stiff as in winter."

Another contemporary account of the storm is contained in a letter from the Poughkeepsie correspondent of The New York Evening Post, in the June 13 issue. "Wednesday last," he writes, "was the warmest day we have had this season. During the night following, however, the wind chopped about to the northwest and next day, Thursday, was the coldest day we had experienced for a month. On Thursday night we had a severe frost. The weather has been unusually cold every day since. Inasmuch that ice of considerable thickness has been made each night for the five nights last past. The vegetables liable to be destroyed by frost have been entirely cut off in most of the gardens in the vicinity of this village."

"The crops of winter grain were in this country so entirely destroyed by the unfavorable winter and spring that they have been plowed up. In many other cases they were so seriously injured that it has been for some time supposed that our farmers would not reap their seed. It is now feared that the meagre fields of rye which had been spared by the winter have been wholly destroyed by the recent frosts, the rye being in blossom."

Overcasts on "the Fourth"

"The present cold days and frosty nights threaten the crop of Indian corn and other summer grain with similar destruction. This state of things is calculated to excite the most gloomy apprehensions, not only in the minds of the farming interests, but of the inhabitants generally."

This story, the first news printed in that journal concerning a natural phenomena which has attracted the speculation of scientists for more than one hundred years, was tucked away down at the bottom of an inside column under the small heading, "Extraordinary Weather."

To the modern reader who remembers the "Extraordinary Weather" headed with which newspapers greeted the first hot week of June last year, the position of unimportance to which this "Extraordinary Weather" was relegated may seem unjustified.

Winter brought considerable hardship everywhere; prices soared. Abraham, Regent, of Chester, N.H., said seed corn for $4 a bushel in the Spring of 1817. Hay was selling for $180 a ton, an increase of $60 per cent over the market price of the previous Spring. Potato prices rose from forty cents a bushel to seventy-five cents, flour from eight dollars to eighteen dollars a barrel.

Volcanic Disturbance
Some scientists say that the extraordinary summer was the result of a series of volcanic disturbances which began in 1812, with Soufriere in the British West Indies, and ended with the terrific eruption of Tambora in the Malay Archipelago in 1815, one of the four or five largest eruptions in the last two centuries. They point out that this series of eruptions discharged into the air a tremendous amount of dust and ashes, which surrounded the earth like a fine mist. This aura in turn acted as an armor against the heat of the sun, and a lowered temperature all over the world was the result.

Another less simple explanation is concerned with the effect of sun spots upon the climate. To the layman it is a complicated bit of reasoning, concerned as it is with phrases as "electrostatic field of force," "penetrating radiation," and "atomic disintegration." Reduced to its simplest terms, it merely means that sun spots lessen the number of rays of light which the sun throws forth and consequently the earth is colder. During May and June of 1816 spots on the sun were so large as to be visible to the naked eye.

It is upon this theory that scientists base their predictions of unusually cold weather in the Summer of 1926.

Hardy Norseman to Prove Saga's Truth

Possibility of Leif Ericson's Discovery of America to Be Shown by Sailor

No true Norwegian doubts that the first white man to set foot on the soil of America was not Christopher Columbus, but Leif Ericson, the hardy Norseman, whose ship, the saga relate, was in the ninth century driven by storms to an unknown country, on which he and his companions landed, and which, it is claimed by Norwegian historians, was somewhere in the region of Massachusetts.

A young Norwegian, Captain Folger, now intends to emulate the feat of Ericson by sailing from Bergen to America, with three companions, in a proper Viking ship, built on the model of the famous Gokstad Viking ship, which is preserved in an Oslo museum. The ship will be forty feet long and twelve feet broad, and it is proposed to begin the venturesome trip across the Atlantic from Bergen on May 15 next. The course will be to Dover and thence to Cape Finisterre, Madeira, and Cape Hatteras, eight miles

REST HOUR AT TUBERCULAR SCHOOL.

Not an "afterwar" picture, but little patients at Kensal House, Harrow Road, London, participating in the compulsory daily outdoor rest hour, which is an all-important feature in anti-tubercular education. Lessons, sports, dieting, all have their own relative importance, but none takes precedence over daily rest periods. Thus the fathers of the world's greatest city are doing their share towards eliminating the terrible white plague.

ed by unanticipated snowstorms, May dawned auspiciously. It was too dry, to be sure, but at least the temperature was normal, and farmers who had seen the crops stunted by continued frosts took heart. As the twelfth of the month approached the thermometer began to misbehave again. The general resultant discouragement is reflected in the Hildom entry for May 25: "Reason is cold and backward. Many are out of provisions of every kind. Prospects look dark for another year. In Him who has promised us seed time and harvest, and in Him only hope, and in Him may we trust."

How to Take Corns Out So They Never Come Back

"You simply use salicylic acid, which does the trick every time, and also stops itching, tenderness, blisters, chilblains, or even rheumatic and gouty pains," says F. N. TILNICK, formerly of the R.A.M.C.

"Putting the tip of a corn off with a razor or burning it off with acid is a bad job. The plaster, etc., doesn't do any good. The plaster just sprouts right up again, and when your corn has a broad new top on it, bigger than ever, the top is only dead skin anyway. The business end of a corn is the little, pointed part, or core, that extends down into the foot. That is what hurts, and it is the part you have to get out. Carving the corn off an itching foot wouldn't stop the itching. The way with a corn. Don't worry about the top. Get the root out permanently by using a good big handful of Boudier's Balm. Balm (you can get half a pound at eight cents for any druggist) dissolved in a gallon or so of hot water. Just soak your foot in this for 15 or 20 minutes then take hold of the corn with your fingers and pull it out. It will come out all like the little corns that are a nuisance. Only a little hole or depression is left in the foot, and has some cream on it. There is nothing left in there to sprout a new corn again. It doesn't affect the surrounding flesh at all, but when you remove the whole of the corn, no blisters or sores, no pain, no danger, no trouble, and no need of waiting to see whether that old corn is going to leave for good or come back to stay with you a while longer. Boudier's Balm (the same way, then scrub off, and I don't dare tell you how quick this medicated water, made with Boudier's Balm, will always drive away, chafes, blisters, etc., away, and over the place made or gouty pain. It would wound too much to be true, but Boudier's Balm is a wonderful stuff saturated water is—C. & T. ## Ecclesiastical Drawings on View At Christ Church Sale of Work

Interesting Pictures by Mr. Percy Bacon, LL.D., London, England, Are Feature of Today's Display—
Mental Hygiene Exhibit Also Important

Art students and art lovers should not fail to see one section, at least, of the exhibition and sale of work which is being held today at Memorial Hall under the auspices of Christ Church Cathedral. Mrs. Schofield is formally opening the exhibition at 2:30 this afternoon.

The section referred to is a collection of ecclesiastical drawings sent from England by the artist, Mr. Percy Bacon, LL.D. Originally intended for exhibition in connection with the World Service Exhibition in September, the drawings did not arrive in time, so Ven. Archdeacon Laycock, to whom they were sent, has retained them in order to show them at the annual Christmas sale of work.

There is a double interest in these pictures. As drawings carried out in the pre-Raphaelite school style, they have a decided beauty, chastity, and symbolism; also, they afford to students some idea of the method of sectioning a picture suitably for reproduction in stained glass.

In all there are fourteen full-size drawings. There is one of Faith, carrying the lamp and book; another of Mercy, with a child gathered in her arms; and still another of Charity. A triptych of the resurrection is very fine, one panel showing the sunken tomb, while the two others show the guardian angels, with lilies blooming all around. One panel shows Jesus on the shores of the Sea of Galilee talking with Simon Peter and some of the other disciples.

Water-Color Sketches
In all of these there is beauty of subject, beauty of line, a high devotional spirit, and fidelity in the detail, such as the tapestries and draperies. Above and around the figures are traced the outlines of the windows for which they were designed.

In addition to these larger drawings are some small water-color sketches, also designs for stained-glass windows. The coloring is very rich. One shows David, St. Michael and Jonathan; another is of the crucifixion, and a third is a triptych with Christ in the central panel and Courage and Victory on either side.

Hygiene Exhibit
Another interesting department of the sale is the mental hygiene exhibit.

Indigestion

When chronic, is best relieved by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

In most cases, indigestion results from torpid liver and sluggish bowel action. Tablets for the stomach and aids to digestion fall in this chronic form of indigestion. You must get the filtering and excretory organs right before you can expect permanent relief, and this is best accomplished by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Chronic indigestion is a very common condition. On this account many suffer for years not realizing that relief is at hand in the form of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Headaches, biliousness, spells of constipation and diarrhoea are among the accompanying ailments.

What a relief it would be to be free of this condition which makes one feel so miserable and it is so easily by using this well-known regulator of the liver, kidneys and bowels.

which was sent from Toronto to be shown at the World Service Exhibition. The display is in two sections. One is work done by feeble-minded children who are receiving training in special classes in Canadian schools. There are neatly-worked bags, aprons, dresses, soft toys made of twilling and stuffed with wool, worked tea and lunch sets, raffia mats, etc. Much of this interesting work came from the Lansdowne School Industrial class, Toronto.

In order that the value of the exhibit may be appreciated to the full, the wall is hung with a series of pictures showing the training schools and classes where these children are being cared for and taught by specially trained and sympathetic teachers.

Drawn-Work
In an adjoining room is the adult work, a collection lent by the Canadian National Committee for mental hygiene, of which Lord and Lady Byng are patrons, and Dr. Charles Martin the president.

On one card above some exquisite embroidery is a statement to the effect:

there is no intention even to make any money from what was primarily intended as an educational exhibit. But a small admission fee of five cents is being charged in order to cover the cost of carriage between here and Toronto. Miss Snyder and social service workers will be in charge of these two exhibits. Archdeacon Laycock will be in charge of the ecclesiastical drawings by Mr. Percy Bacon, and also the architectural drawings of the new cathedral by Mr. J. C. M. Keith.

Other Features

Chow, and afternoon tea and supper, Mrs. F. W. Thomas.

Twice during the day, at 3:15 and at 8, respectively, there will be a lantern-slide talk by Rev. H. T. Archbold, entitled, "Around the World With the M.C.C." At 4:45 Miss L. K. Brown will show a set of slides for the entertainment of the children.

"By the way, did that new chauffeur of yours turn out all right?"

"No, that's why he's in the hospital."

Babs: "My daddy is taller than your daddy."

City Merchant Now Inventor

Mr. George Carter Has Mitre Which Wins Favor—Has Inventive Genius

Mr. George Carter, of the Carter Oriental Importing Company, has just perfected a new mitre machine which bids fair to become at once popular in the line of mechanics. The patent rights for the invention have been applied for by Mr. Carter. It will be known as Carter's Angle and Mitre Cut. Already it has been passed upon by many practical men and these are highly pleased with the machine.

The principle of the new machine is very simple. The saw is held fairly rigid and does not change its direction. The alteration of the angle of the cut is brought about by the fact that the table which carries the wood that is to be mitred is capable of being shifted in a circular way and set by screw at any angle. The machine is claimed for this new machine that there exists an infinitely greater scope than any other machine of the kind has ever had.

Pending the granting of the patent Mr. Carter has not made any arrangements regarding the manufacture of the new invention on a large scale.

But it is not in this direction alone that the inventive genius of Mr. Carter has been directed. He has in his own store and has already taken out the patents for it, a new type of silent salesman. This is designed to meet the demand for a convenient way of displaying carpets, rugs, wall paper, and an endless variety of wares that now take up so much space to exhibit properly, and which are moreover damaged in the constant handling. By a simple method rugs, for instance, are displayed before the customer in such a manner that they readily catch the eye. They may be thrown back out of the way as examined, or by a simple mechanical device any one of them may be liberated and taken out without disturbing the remaining samples in the pile.

Wong's Abduction Appeals

VANCOUVER, Dec. 3.—From a conviction for abducting Wong Foon Sing and sentence of one year's imprisonment in Oakalla jail, Oscar B. V. Robinson is appealing to the Minister of Justice for a new trial and for executive clemency. Robinson contends that his trial was prejudiced because Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald instructed the jury that there was no defence to the charge and no facts for the jury to consider, although His Lordship had admitted evidence in rebuttal and rebuttal testimony can only be heard to rebut facts, which would indicate that there was a question which the jury should have considered. His Lordship's attitude was that he "took the lid off" to allow the matters to be fully ventilated.

Urge Highway From Coast to Bella Coola

Opportunities Would Be Opened Up by Construction, Member for Mackenzie Tells Legislature

Prospects in Lumber Industry Improving

Advocates Encouragement of Manufacture of Heavy Cardboard in B.C.—Great Demand Exists

The completion of a highway along the trail followed by Sir Alexander Mackenzie, the first white man to cross the North American continent north of Mexico, to tide-water at Bella Coola would be a comparatively easy undertaking, was the statement made to the Legislature yesterday by Mr. Mike Manson, member for Mackenzie. Mr. Manson gave credit to the Minister of Public Works for the manner in which he had assisted the settlers in Mackenzie district with roads and asked that he continue the policy of opening up land transportation in the Coast constituency. He also made a defence of the Government system of export log control.

needs of Texada Island, Lasqueti Island and in the matter of highway construction and urging the construction of a road from Powell River to Malaspina Inlet, the speaker dwelt for some time on the urgency of a road from Ocean Falls to Martin River. He then turned his attention to the construction of a highway from the Coast to link up with the Interior highway system through the Bella Coola Valley. There was a road for a distance of approximately forty miles, and he suggested extending this to the big slide at Atnarko and the opening of a trail from that place on a road level, with progressive construction of a highway.

Highest Waterfall in Canada
This road, he said, could be constructed as a toll road beyond Atnarko slide and would soon pay for itself. The district, known locally as Mackenzie Park, was a veritable wonderland and would prove to be a wonderful attraction to tourists, who could drive from Vancouver through the Fraser Valley Canyon and up the Cariboo Road to the proposed highway and on to the sea, returning to Vancouver by water route.

In the area were glaciers, hot springs and wonderful waterfalls. He paid tribute to the work done in exploring the district and recording its archaeological treasures by Dr. Harlan I. Smith, of the Victoria Memorial Museum, Ottawa. Dr. Smith, he said, had this summer visited a waterfall there that measured 328 feet and was possibly higher. It was the highest fall in Canada, and second highest in the Western Hemisphere.

Mr. Manson dealt exhaustively with the timber export business, reviewing the history of the lumber industry from the entry of British Columbia into Confederation.

Permit System Works Well
"I want to say that I am in hearty accord with any condition which can be brought about which will enable not only the manufacture of our logs, but also of our ores and all other natural resources into the finished state in British Columbia and I think that every member of the House agrees with me. Theoretically the proper course is to manufacture all raw materials into finished products before leaving the country of origin, but, unfortunately, theory and actual business possibilities and practice do not always work out together, peaceably and profitably in double harness, and the present time is one in which they are at variance."

Continuing, he said that the present permit system of exporting logs appeared to him to be working out satisfactorily and was proving to be more in the nature of "a safety valve" to relieve complicated or congested situations than a policy of indiscriminate export.

Prospects Improving
During the last three years, there had been several disastrous mill fires, chiefly at Chemainus, the Hanbury Mill in Vancouver and the Robertson & Hackett plant in the same city. In addition there had been other smaller mill fires and other large plants had closed. This created a lessening in the demand for logs, so the large totals mentioned as having been exported did not affect the local situation except to provide a market for the logging camps. There was no injury done to B.C. mills.

He urged that the Government make a careful study of the timber situation with a view to stabilizing conditions, providing employment and putting the industry on a sound and practical basis. Another suggestion he advanced was that the Minister of Lands seek to encourage the manufacture of heavy cardboard in British Columbia, there being a great demand for this commodity.

Mr. Manson defended the Pacific Lumber Inspection Bureau, which had been attacked in the House earlier in the session as a foreign organization that was exacting tribute from British Columbia forests. He explained the workings of the bureau and declared that instead of being condemned it should be commended, as it was doing a good work.

Dr. Winch, member for Skeena, adjourned the debate. He will be the first speaker today and will be followed by Mr. J. Hinchliffe, second member for Victoria City.

COLUMBIA Railroad men are very THEATRE cautious about giving information to outsiders. Like every other great institution or system, the railroad has its unwritten laws and its traditions. These are guarded well, as Eric C. Kenton found out when he started to direct "The Danger Signal," the new Columbia feature which is now showing at the Columbia Theatre. The hundreds of little touches that make a real convincing picture in a railroad drama, have to be carefully shown if a strong result is to be obtained. But it is almost impossible to do this without the fullest co-operation from the people who operate railroads.

PLAYHOUSE Virginia Valli, whose work in "The Signal Tower" and "K—The Unknown," recent Universal Jewel productions, has established her firmly on the pinnacle of stardom, is co-starring with Norman Kerry in "The Price of Pleasure," Universal Jewel, how the attraction in the Playhouse Theatre. The supporting cast includes a number of widely-known screen players, among them Louise Fazenda, T. Roy Barnes, Kate Lester, George Fawcett, Marie Astaire and James O. Harrows. Edward Sloman directed.

COLISEUM It is hard to single out THEATRE any member of the Coliseum Company for praise in their "Revue of 1890," the striking stage presentation this week. Will Marshall, as a curate presiding at the old-fashioned concert, proves a past master in the art of burlesque. Frank Alford, back on the stage again, does some fine character acting as a Devonshire yokel. Ruth Hamilton and George Hynden are hardly to be recognized in their juvenile roles. The remarkable picture, "The Air Mail," and the vic. Boys' Orchestra complete the bill.

DOMINION Sometime ago we read THEATRE that Harold Lloyd had said he considered "The Freshman" to be almost as good a picture as "Grandma's Boy." He's all wrong. It's better! It's the best picture he has ever made, is our humble opinion, and would seem to be the opinion of the audience at the Dominion Theatre yesterday. They shrieked and gurgled and gulped helplessly. Not even a wooden Indian could have sat through that show unmoved! Everything about this Lloyd picture is better than it has ever been before. Harold Lloyd himself is better. So is Jobyna Ralston.

CAPITOL The gigantic Universal THEATRE romantic thriller which is said to surpass in magnitude "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," is now showing at the Capitol Theatre. "The Phantom of the Opera" is the title of the super-spectacle in which Lon Chaney, "the man of a thousand faces," is to be seen in what an enterprising publicity man has aptly termed "his thousand and first face." Chaney is supported by Mary Philbin, Norman Kerry, more than a score of other well-known actors and a cast numbering thousands.

"Little Annie Rooney"
 By Mary Pickford at
 Dominion Next Week

The saucy, mischievous imp who is being loved by millions throughout the world is back on the silver screen. Mary Pickford has forsaken the ruffled laces and bejeweled gowns of costume plays and has returned to the type of role that made her famous. "The World's Sweetheart" is again the curly haired, prank playing, impetuous Irish lassie in "Little Annie Rooney," her latest United Artists Corporation photoplay, which comes to the Dominion Theatre on Monday. "Little Annie Rooney" starts with a fight and ends with a fight. In between are laughs galore, a tear or two, much suspense and many heart throbs. It's an ideal story for Mary Pickford and her characterization of Little Annie is supported by genuine artistry, played as no other actress could play it.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—Rival moving picture concerns are engaged in a controversy over who is to show the film record of the signing of the Locarno treaty to America. A large audience gathered for the concert given Wednesday evening under the auspices and in aid of the funds of Victoria West Brotherhood. The entire programme was contributed by a party of entertainers from First United Church, under the direction of Mr. R. Hardie, Mr. A. C. Cody-Johnson, president of the Brotherhood, was in the chair.

The following was the programme: Songs, Mrs. Ford, Mr. Thomas, Mr. R. Solarium Fund Increases

Funds for the Solarium are growing fast, being constantly added to by the ceaseless efforts of canvassers, taggers and campaigners. At the meeting of Cansoun Chapter, 10 D.E., on Wednesday, announcement was made that the sum of $30 had been received for the second of the series of historical lectures given by Mrs. L. Adams Beck.

Under the direction of Mrs. R. W. Perry and Mrs. Palmer a band of children tagged in Oak Bay for the Solarium, making altogether the sum of $43.50.

Sir John Martin Harvey to Come

English Actor Is Booked to Start Canadian Tour on December 21

It is reported from London that Sir John Martin Harvey's engagement at the Ambassador's Theatre in "The Burmester of Billenonde" has proven a tremendous success and if it were not for the fact that Sir John is booked to open his Canadian tour on December 21, the engagement would be continued indefinitely.

It has been practically decided that Sir John's opening offerings will be "The Only Way" and "The Corsican Brothers," which will be played during the first half of the tour which will take the company through Halifax to Victoria. The plays to be presented on the return journey have not been definitely decided upon owing to the many requests that have been received for all of the old favorites, but it is an assured fact that Sir John will be seen in his splendid performance of "Richard III" and in a modernized version of Irving's success, "The Lyons Mail" before the tour is completed.

Change in System Of Taxation of Mines Proposed

He instanced how one company was producing ore worth $40 a ton. After paying the various charges of mining, transportation and smelting, the return to the operators was $1 a ton. The tax amounted to sixty cents a ton, leaving only a margin of forty cents profit. On this the company could not continue to operate, and the mine was closed. A tax on profits, even if it had been as high as six per cent, would have permitted the mine operators to make a better profit and continue in business.

He suggested that the Ontario system of taxing might be successfully adopted in British Columbia.

Figures Disputed

Mr. Wallinger took issue with the figures quoted by the Minister of Finance in respect to mining returns. It would appear, he said, that the miners of the Province were in a prosperous condition owing to the fact that $40,000,000 had been given as the value of the output. The minister should have pointed out that the value was based on the New York prices, and did not represent the figure which the operators obtained for their products. It would be just as fair, he said, to infer that the farmers obtained the full value of the retail selling prices of their products.

The effect of the present system of taxation was to vary the percentage that was paid on the returns. In the case he had instanced the tax amounted to sixty per cent of the profit, while on higher grades of ore it would be proportionately less. He advanced as a suggestion that the cost of underground work could well be used in rebate of taxes until the full amount was repaid, and a large rebate should be allowed for depletion of ore reserves. A paying mine meant employment and more taxes from the community to the public treasury, and to continue a system of taxation that would retard the proper development of the mineral resources of the Province was a false economy.

Minister Criticized

Mr. Wallinger touched on one or two matters of importance to his district, giving praise to the Minister of Agriculture for the encouragement given to agriculture through the placing in the district of a man who was doing his utmost to assist the farmers and create a new interest in farming.

He criticized the Minister of Lands for having removed Major Hicks, a competent and efficient public servant, on the grounds of economy. Major Hicks, he said, was in receipt of $2,700 annually. A new man had been sent into the district and his expenses for six months had amounted to $2,600.

Mail Clerk Given Three Years

WINNIPEG, Dec. 3.—For theft from His Majesty's mail, Fred K. Armstrong, railway mail clerk, was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary today.

Half the world is half asleep

Many people are considered lazy when they are really suffering from the world's most universal disease—constipation. It is a disease which robs you of your energy, your interest, your desire to do things. Only ALL-BRAN brings sure and safe relief from this disease.

"My dear... what is the matter with Harriet?"

HARRIET was once the life of the party. Once. Today her friends have a way of "pitying her" wherever she goes. Her sallow cheeks, her lifelessness, her circled eyes. Sluggish; always dead tired, Harriet stumbles on down the pathway of social decline—needlessly!

In the world about us, there are thousands of men and women who, like Harriet, suffer from constipation and pay its hideous price. Constipation is the world's most universal disease. But constipation can be permanently relieved and its devastations thwarted.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a safe, sure way of relieving constipation permanently. It will drive the sluggishness out of the system and restore that vivid vitality so necessary to perfect health and worldly triumph.

This is how Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brings relief and why it is safe and sure: as it journeys through the body its fiber remains unchanged. It remains a bulk food, as doctors call it. ALL-BRAN sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestine. It stimulates the flow of the digestive juices. It absorbs and carries moisture into the intestine and prompts it to natural, healthy action. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN works as nature works. You never have to increase the amount eaten. How different from habit-forming pills and drugs, whose dose must be increased as time goes on.

If eaten regularly, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to bring permanent relief or your grocer refunds the purchase price. Eat two tablespoon-

KNOW THE TRUTH ABOUT BRAN

To be effective, bran fiber must go through the various digestive processes without submitting to any of them. It must pass through the entire alimentary tract without its form being changed. What happens when a bran food is eaten? After the saliva has acted upon it, it passes through the stomach and into the intestines, where every part which is not fiber is absorbed. In ALL-BRAN the quantity of fiber is so great that it furnishes bulk enough to prevent and relieve constipation. In a part-bran food, the quantity of fiber is so small that there is only a puny amount to do a herculean task. ALL-BRAN brings sure results. Demand it.

fuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Eat it any way you like it—with milk or cream, sprinkled over other cereals; in soups, cooked with hot cereals, or made into the many delicious recipes given on every package. Also delicious with fruit. But be certain to get Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

Only ALL-BRAN brings sure results. A product which is only part bran is not dependable. It can bring, at best, only partial results. Too many times it may bring none. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is ALL-BRAN. That is why doctors recommend it. Why take chances?

Kellogg's is the original and only ALL-BRAN. In thousands of successful cases it has proved its worth. Let it bring permanent relief from constipation for you. Your grocer sells Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Get a package today. Leading hotels and restaurants serve it.

Licences for Japanese Are 15 Per Cent Less

Only 162 Japanese Will Be Able to Obtain Licences for Salmon Trolling for 1926 Season

508 Were Issued in 1921

VANCOUVER, Dec. 3.—Following out the policy inaugurated in 1923 of gradually reducing the number of licences issued to Japanese for salmon trolling, the Federal Department of Fisheries has issued a order reducing the 1924 licences fifteen per cent as compared with this year.

In 1921 there were 508 licences issued, and the following year they were reduced by one-third. In 1923 they were reduced twenty-five per cent; in 1924 by ten per cent, and fifteen per cent this year.

On this year's basis of 191 licences, there will be 142 issued next year. Practically all these Japanese engaged in salmon trolling are on the West and East Coasts of Vancouver Island.

Control of Trade Cycles Discussed

Opinion Divided as to Economic Feasibility of Control, Says Financial Journalist

MONTREAL, Dec. 3.—The problem of whether trade cycles are controllable, and whether it would be in the public interest to prevent the violent fluctuations in trade that take place, was the subject of an interesting address by Mr. J. Miller McConnell, financial editor of The Montreal Star, to the members of the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association, at their luncheon and meeting.

Mr. McConnell, in his address, said that the gathering meant more than an expression of good fellowship and good business for they represented an organization that had a big problem on its hands, that of controlling credit, and that organization was one of the evidences of the growth of co-operating with a view to bettering conditions affecting mercantile interests. It was evident that organization and co-operation would be required in many directions to benefit humanity as a whole, although many such efforts would be confined to special interests such as that which he was addressing. The world was full of problems, many of them weighty ones and there were so many of them that they seemed to be crowding one another for public attention. Some of them were new and attracted a great deal of notice, such as the labor problem and social problems of all kinds, but there were others, which were less heard of, but which were receiving the attention of some of the most eminent economists throughout the world. They were seeking a remedy for the worldwide problem which affected the great mass of the producers and toilers of all countries, and that was the one of controlling trade cycles.

Two schools of thought. There were, continued the speaker, two schools of economic thought which differed as to the desirability and feasibility of endeavoring to control such matters as these. On the one hand there was the old school who believed that economic forces should be allowed free play and flexibility, the fluctuations being an indication to producers and merchants of what things are plentiful and what are scarce, so that capital and labor could be set to work to supply those things that rising prices showed were needed. They claimed that the desire to stabilize everything was the natural reaction after the monstrous fluctuations which followed the abuse of the printing press by all Governments during the war.

Unemployment. On the other hand some of the most eminent economists believed that it has been shown that some form of control could be exercised which would benefit humanity very materially. The problem of unemployment was one that was closely associated with the question, for at certain periods a very large number of people throughout the world were practically on the verge of starvation, and some regarded the violent fluctuations in trade, commonly called trade cycles, were at the bottom of much unemployment and uncertain labor. It had been demonstrated that people's hearts were in the right place, and that they were willing to help mankind in difficulties, but what the economists sought was to get at the real causes of the trouble, believing that if they could find them they were studying would go towards improving the status of humanity and their ultimate happiness and comfort.

It was, said Mr. McConnell, believed that a remedy for these violent fluctuations in trade was to be found in the field of finance through the control of banking credits. It was admitted that this would be a difficult problem to work out, but economists were on the theory that the progress had been made in all forms of control and stabilization, and that

Best Boy and Girl in U.S. Determined

Most Perfect Specimens of Country's Childhood Selected at Chicago Fair

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—Kings of the barnyard and field having been named at the International Livestock Exposition, the climax came last night with selection of the most perfect boy and girl in America. Alice Burkhardt, fifteen, of Audubon County, Iowa, was chosen as the most perfect girl, and George Cuskaden, fourteen, of St. Paul, Indiana, won the honors as the country's most perfect boy.

The selection was made by competitive physical examination of more than 600,000 farm boys and girls, members of girls' and boys' agricultural clubs.

The healthiest boy and the healthiest girl from each state in the Union met here for the final examinations this week. Alice Burkhardt scored 95.7 per cent. A slight cold from exposure to Chicago weather, and too little muscular development of the arms were her only defects. The boy scored 97.7 per cent, his only flaws being one filled tooth, slightly enlarged nasal passages, and a hardly perceptible tendency toward flat-footedness.

The girl is five feet five inches tall, weighs 131 pounds, milks the cow, rides horseback, swims, plays tennis and basketball, but drinks neither tea nor coffee. She goes to bed at 8:30, gets up at 6, and walks four miles to school. She is a junior in high school, wants to become a teacher, and is the fifth of six children.

George Cuskaden is five feet seven inches tall, weighs 135 pounds. He is an athlete, member of his high school basketball, baseball and track teams.

Must Get the Money
 "Mr. Jones appears to be the young Moses that has arisen to lead the Conservatives to the promised land of the Government benches," said Mr. Woodward. "I am sure that you will find him to be a man who is studying to attach a lot of interest to a simple letter I wrote to the Premier and thought there was something funny in it. But I can assure them that we quarrel over here sometimes; we rely on it to keep us fit. If this young Moses has an eye on the Finance Minister's chair, it might take him ten or twenty years to get there. I should advise him to turn his talents in other directions. He will be an old man when his chance comes—however, you never know, as the Premier might die, or something like that may happen." (Laughter.)

The personal property tax was touched on with more than moderate detail by Mr. Woodward, who said the Government should grant greater relief than was proposed in the Budget, which amounted only to a little more than $40,000. He referred to an influential deputation on the subject from Vancouver and Victoria last year. "They wrote to me recently, and said they were afraid there would be some other legislation that would hit them harder than the personal property tax," he added. "The Finance Minister is pretty strong on taxation. He is always looking around to see what he can tax. I don't know what is going to happen if a halt is not called. Of course, I understand he is up against it; his associates spend the money and he has to get revenue to meet the expenditures." (Laughter.)

Premier Should Go
 After voicing his protest against the exemption for succession duty being reduced from $25,000 to $15,000 and hinting that the Government might carry out his wishes, Mr. Woodward turned his attention to the question of developing the idle lands of the Province. He regretted that something was not done to secure the wide stream of immigration of families going to Australia, Canada and British Columbia, had more to offer, yet Australia, under the agreement with the Imperial Government, had secured last year 34,000 families, which would amount to 170,000 people, at the average of three to a family.

"The Premier should go Home to the Old Country," he remarked, while the House applauded. "He should take a business man with him," he added.

"Take the senior member for Vancouver," remarked the member for Alberni, Mr. R. Burde, amid party cheers.

"I am talking seriously," retorted Mr. Woodward, "when I say he should take a business man with him, and act on his advice. Between them, they should be able to do something to get the Province rid of the millions that are hanging round its neck. They could offer the P.C.E. to the Imperial Government or to British capital, and offer to absorb thousands of their surplus people."

Indifference Amazes Them
 They could let them have the line at cost and 20,000 acres of land per mile for colonization purposes. This would amount, in the aggregate, to 3,000,000 acres of land. Then, if the Home Government wanted to settle more of their people here, it could be done in road-building and in the Peace River country.

"You ought to offer that policy to the Premier," ventured a member of the Opposition.

"If the Government has not got a policy, I shall offer them one," replied Mr. Woodward, and the House again cheered. "The people in the Old Country," he continued, "are amazed at the indifference that prevails in Canada on the matter of immigration and colonization."

In this connection, he recalled the published observations of eminent visitors from Great Britain. The Home Government has more than 140,000,000 accumulated in the fund they have built up from annual appropriations for the purposes of settlement in the Dominions. Beyond that they have farm schools, at which they are training young farmers for the Dominions, and there is little or any desire expressed by Canada to avail itself of this great help to colonize our waste lands. I have no hesitation in condemning my own party in this connection," he added, amid Conservative cheers.

Coal Coming From Wales

"If we were to put a tariff of ten cents a bushel on wheat that leaves Canada for the Old Country through United States ports, it would mean $15,000,000 a year and would go a long way towards using Canada's ports for shipping the wheat," said Mr. Woodward. He urged that British Columbia endeavor to develop its coal resources. He would suggest sending a ship load of it round by the Panama Canal to Ontario and Quebec, to show the eastern people its quality.

The Minister of Mines, Hon. W. Sloan, interjected that Woodward was bringing coal from Wales.

Mr. Woodward adroitly met the interjection by the suggestion that the coal came out as ballast, for the purpose of getting the holds filled with wheat. The House, by its applause, ruled Mr. Woodward the winner in the little verbal duel.

"The Opposition cannot get away from politics," he said. "They should be constructive in their criticism, and assist the Government to build up the country. He twitted them with not possessing the true facts regarding the P.C.E. They should get the correct facts. He had gone to some trouble to equip himself

Santa Claus Arrives Saturday With a Monster ParadeOld Santa is rushing to Victoria by Aeroplane, he wired us that he will arrive when all good little boys and girls are asleep on Friday night. He says he is using the stars as searchlights and making fine progress.Imagine Santa with a host of aeroplanes filled with won-derous toys flying through the silvery night clouds to you, isn't it wonderful?He told us to tell you all that he will meet you at the top of Yates Street at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, and from there he will proceed down Yates to Douglas, along Douglas past the Crystal Garden, to the right along Belleville,up Government to View and up View to the View Street Entrance of SPENCER'S, where he will make his headquarters for the rest of the month.And, best of all, he is bringing a most wonderful CIRCUS along with him. There will be real live bears, leopards, monkeys, cranes, tigers, giraffes and camels, a whole host of clowns mounted on ponies and wheels, a troupe of real Eskimos, Old Mother Goose, Robinson Crusoe with his man
Friday, all this headed by a miniature Military Band and Dear Old Santa himself riding in his own beautiful carriage which he brought with him from the Frozen North.Extraordinary Values in
